

Open to see the scree diagram and interactively select the number of components.

Choose two best principal components and check if the classes from the input dataset are well separated.

The File widget loads brown-selected, a dataset from molecular biology with 79 features, 186 instances and 3 classes.